Anty Drudge Gives Advice.

Eleanor (in tears)—"Here's my prettiest shirtwaist torn and ruined by that nasty laundry. I haven't a clean one to wear to the party to-night."

Anty Drudge—"Well, that one is past helping and crying for, but if you will get a cake of Fels-Naptha soap I'll show you how to get another one clean in a hurry. In cold water, with very little work. We'll iron it, too, in a jiffy and it will be fat, cleaner and fresher than any laundry can make it."

How long your light summer clothes last depends not on how much they are worn, but on how often they are washed. That is, if they are washed in the old-fashioned way.

If they are washed with Fels-Naptha in cold or lukewarm water, the washing won't harm them a bit.

Boiling hurts any clothes, but it is particularly hard on light stuffs, such as sheer linens, lawns, laces and muslins—rots the fabric so they will tear easily. And hard rubbing on the washboard wears them out and frays them.

You avoid this by washing the Fels-Naptha way in cold or lukewarm water. Boiling and hard-rubbing are unnecessary, because Fels-Naptha dissolves the dirt into tiny particles which are sent flying by light rubbing and thorough rinsing.

Then, too, the clothes are cleaner, whiter and sweeter, as well as longer-wearing.

Be sure to follow the easy directions on the red and green wrapper.

Are the Fly and Mosquito Dangerous?

The fly, with spongy feet, collects the invisible germs of diseases, spreads them over our food and poisons us with typhoid and cholera. The mosquito with its bite injects into our veins malaria and yellow fever. The bacteria of consumption, or grip, are everywhere present for us to breathe into our lungs. The blood which flows through our veins and arteries is our protection. It should contain healthy red and white blood corpuscles—capable of warding off these disease germs. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is a blood medicine and a powerful tonic, entirely without alcohol, a pure glycerine extract of bloodroot, golden seal, Oregon grape root, quinine, iron, and other tonic ingredients, which has enjoyed a good reputation for over forty years. The refreshing influence of this extract is like Nature's influence—the blood is purified in the tonic which gives life to the blood—the vital force of the body burns brighter and their increased activity consumes the tissue rubbish which has accumulated during the winter.

ILLINOIS MAN INQUIRES ABOUT OWENSDALE HALL

His Father an Early Settler
Along the Morgan
Valley.

HENRY CLAY AMONG HIS GUESTS

Daniel Boone also Entertained Near the Old Federal Hall, at Beautiful
Vance Home—Some Interesting History.

Special to The Courier.
OWENSDALE, Aug. 19.—The Courier correspondent is in receipt of a letter from Moses Vance, of Cairo, Ill., inquiring about the whereabouts of the old Federal hall that was built by his ancestors. Mr. Vance was a former resident of this vicinity and moved to the West when he was a young man.

Among the earliest settlers along the Morgan valley was John Vance, father of Moses Vance. Vance came from Virginia about the middle of July, 1790, and took up a thousand acres of timber land and built a plantation near the present site of the Federal hall. The plantation was situated on the banks of the Morgan river, and the fields were planted in corn. The plantation was one of the most beautiful in Western Pennsylvania and it was here that some of the most distinguished men of the day were entertained, including the statesman, Henry Clay of Kentucky, who spent weeks at a time here while on his way to attend Congress at Washington. Daniel Boone, the famous frontiersman, also spent some time at the plantation. The plantation was destroyed by fire in 1812, and the site is now a part of the Vance farm. The Vance family has lived on the farm ever since, and it is now one of the most beautiful farms in the county.

John Vance died in October, 1812, and was buried in the Vance cemetery, just across from the Federal hall. His family of four children, John, William, Mary, and Elizabeth, were all born on the plantation. John, the eldest son, was born in 1791 and died in 1868. He was a prominent citizen and served in the War of 1812. William, the second son, was born in 1793 and died in 1875. He was also a prominent citizen and served in the War of 1812. Mary, the daughter, was born in 1795 and died in 1880. Elizabeth, the youngest daughter, was born in 1797 and died in 1890. The Vance family has lived on the farm ever since, and it is now one of the most beautiful farms in the county.

WASHINGTON'S HUMOR.

A Dinner Invitation Showed the General's Genial Side.

In spite of the general opinion to the contrary, Washington was not an especially grave and austere man. He had a sense of humor and could make a joke as well as any one. From Professor C. P. Holliday, "Wit and Humor of Colonial Days" is taken this letter, written to invite a friend, with the ladies of his family, to dine with the general. There is no date, but there is some reason to think that the note may have been written from Valley Forge. It shows the grave and burdened soldier in a pleasantly genial light.

"Since our arrival at this happy spot we have had a ham, sometimes a shoulder of bacon, to grace the head of the table, a piece of roast beef adorns the foot, and a dish of beans or greens, almost imperceptible, decorates the center."

STAMPING A LETTER.

A Swindler's Way of Doing It Brought Him to Grief.

"Whether a man is a criminal or a law-abiding citizen, he ought to take the pains to stick his postage stamps on exactly straight," an old detective said. "If he is straight he won't lose anything by it, and if he is crooked he will gain. When I was in the government service the first thing I found out about a man under suspicion was the way he stuck on his stamps. One of the cleverest swindlers I ever handled was tracked through his postage stamps."

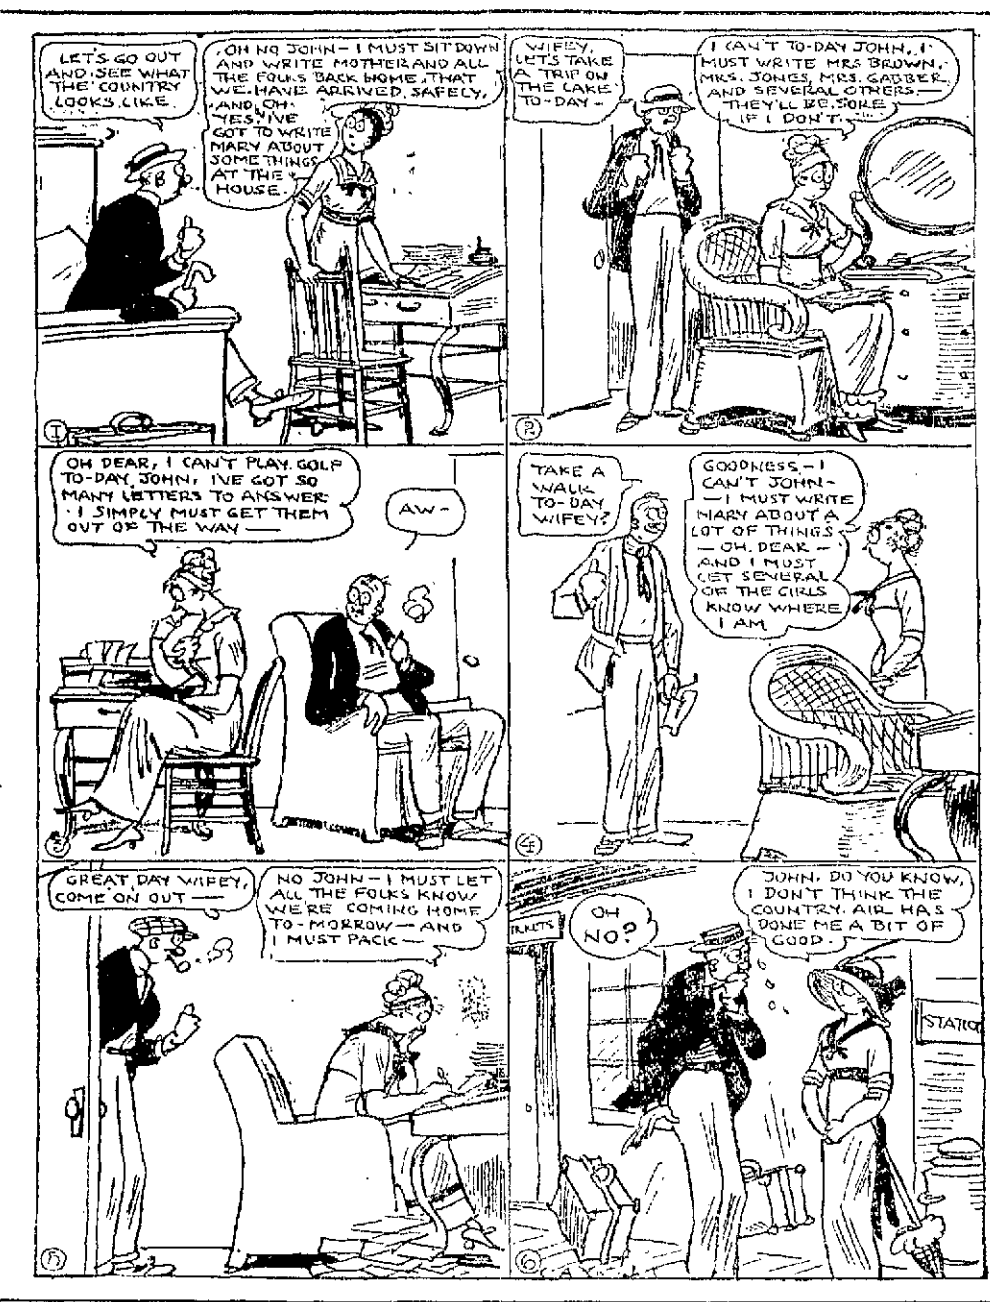

"After you put a stamp on a certain way for a little while it becomes second nature, and you stick it on that way unconsciously. That was what that man did. All his stamps were stuck on diagonally, leaving a little triangle of a certain size at the corner of the envelope. He was a slippery fellow and had eluded vigilance for months."

"One day I happened to be loitering around a postoffice of a country town, where I had gone on another trail. The mail came in, and through the little window I watched the postmaster sort it. Presently I spotted an envelope with the stamp stuck on in that triangular fashion. I got the postmark, looked at that town and abbed my man. If he had put his stamps on straight probably he never would have been caught."—New York Times.

The Train Robbers.
"Yes," said the distinguished foreigner traveling in this country and being interviewed by the busy reporters—"yes, I've gone about quite a bit in this bully big hinterland, y' see. And I can't help wondering why your blooming government doesn't catch the train robbers and lock them up, by Jove!"
"Train robbers?" said the American. "Why, have you met up with train robbers already?"
"Tubby Shaw! Tubby Shaw!"
"Who's that?"
"I meaner say, yes, I have. These blooming black-throated fellows, y'know, and they come in very politely and take my money!"
The American thought it over, and then it began to dawn upon him that this was only another story about Fannin postman—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The centre of all this charm and attraction is the home of Wordsworth. The simple and unassuming little stone house, which was a fair "stage post" looking position in the surroundings. It was here that the poet wrote to the world that to be great a man must be simple. With high thinking and simple living, which present the young man as a whole, the poet is a man of letters. It follows a much the same as when the poet and his devoted sister lived there. Here to see the white cur-

The third largest of these lakes is Common. The lake is very beautiful because it is hemmed in by a series of rugged mountains of which the Olomana is the chief. On the east shore of the lake stands a very steep mountain of basalt and granite. Many famous people lived here, among them are to be mentioned Coleridge, Christopher North, Hemans and Arrild. But it was his favorite spot of the poet Ruskin. His home was called "Fitzwater" a large shambly building with a dining room of 1200 hands. The house is painted white, as when the poet lived here, and is well covered with ivy. It is well

This is the centre for a number of excursions that are made by coach, char-a-banc and wagonette. The famous trip is over the high steeply rising moorlands by Bermer, where one path leads into a wooded dale and with its green hill-sides and rushing foamy white fall. It is only some distance on that the ascent becomes so steep, only one vehicle can pass at a time and then the horses seem every moment to be rushing for the larger deep dale that stretches gaping below. The horses are then galloping over steep ravines all around. And down to a hollow dash little rivulets while the sides are covered with fern and memory, done in white marble by Lough, with the beautiful lines the poet Wordsworth wrote to commemorate his memory. Outside in the church-yard is his grave, marked by a simple tomb-stone. Unwashed and unburied, the body of the poet lies in a great, bare, stone casket, surrounded by emerald green plains on the one side, and high, steep, red rocks on the other. When the moonlight is casting its silver sheen they become a mass of silver.

These are only a few of the many romantic spots in the English lakes, but they are enough to show us that they were beloved by the English poets and writers of earlier days and still popular with travelers.

Saturday Blow Up
In Ninth

The Scottsville Keystones defeated the Fayette Field Independents in a game played at Fayette Field Saturday afternoon. The game was a close one, with the Keystones leading in the ninth inning. The final score was 10 to 9 in favor of the Keystones.

The game was a very interesting one, with many close plays. The Keystones' pitcher, Tom, was very good, and the Fayette Field players did their best. The game was a real treat for the fans.

The Keystones' victory was a well-deserved one. They played a very smart game, and the Fayette Field players were no slouches either. The game was a real test of skill and endurance.
